1. SITUATION

Who are we? What has happened?

CIVIL WAR HAS ERUPTED! The delicate balance between the North and South Pole, that has stood for centuries, was recently been shattered after The Jolly one's ill-fated decision to delve into the arms industry. This decision has again seen tensions rise and break between the North and South.

The North Pole, the seat of power, the hub of creation, the comms center of Christmas, has been attacked by the forces of the South. They have seized several important factories on a key island in the control of the North, killing all elves on the island. At such a crucial time of year, these factories need to be recovered so a new workforce of elves can resume production so there is no delay in the Northern roll out of the day that must not be named.

Father Christmas has not yet officially taken a side in the conflict but with a major conflict looming it is very likely that he will make his stance known soon.

The Leader of the Northern forces is Dai Claus, as identified by his blue suit.

The Leader of the Southern forces is Imarov Claus, as identified by his green suit.
